CAN YOU GUESS.

Here's a Chance to Make
Ten Dollars Easy.

All You Have to Do Is to Pick the Winners In the Coming Primary.

Just for the interest attached to a guessing contest and to put a little more interest into the coming campaign for County officers, THE NEWS will give its readers a chance to make ten dollars and have a little fun at guessing on the side.

To the person making the first nearest correct guess of the winner in the Democratic Primary Election which will be held in this county on Saturday, June 1st, 1901, THE NEWS will present a ten dollar gold piece. The conditions of the contest are simple. Old subscribers and new subscribers who pay $2 on their subscriptions will each be entitled to a guess, and to as many guesses as they pay for their subscription. If no one guesses correctly, the first one who guesses the closest to all the winners will receive the ten dollars.

You intend to pay your subscription anyway, and you may as well pay before the first day of June and have a chance of getting your money back, besides gaining the distinction of knowing more about the political situation than your neighbors.

Each guess will be registered when received as to the exact day, hour and minute. No one will be permitted to see how any one else has guessed. In guessing only the offices on the ballot are to be considered.

MONTGOMERY

May Not Get Commission for Centerville Postmastership.

(Courier-Journal Special.)
WASHINGTON, March 23.—J. C. Montgomery was appointed Postmaster at Centerville, Bourbon County, on March 6. He has not, however, taken charge of the office, owing to the fact that his commission has not been received. Montgomery was appointed on the recommendation of Senator Deboe at the request of the Bourbon County Republican Committee. He was to succeed Miss M. E. Boyd, who has been Postmaster for eighteen years, and against whom no charge of inefficiency or neglect had been brought.

Miss Boyd sustained injuries in a rail road accident several years ago, which has resulted in the loss of both legs. Other than the salary attached to the post-office, she has no means of support. In view of this it is probable that Montgomery, although a pointed Postmaster, will never receive his commission from the present postal officials.

CHAS. L. HUKILL.

Here's Common Sense.

Mrs. Mary Benton Bedell, in an address before the society of political study, touched on the anti-vice crusade in New York, and then added: "While women are attacking vice, let them think of some other things. Why will mothers permit themselves and their daughters to attend evening functions in gowns with corsets so low that a man can hardly look them in the eyes and keep his thoughts where they ought to be? Since the low cut corsets have come in, some women have attempted to model their gowns to match. A Catholic priest forbade his parishioners to appear in such costumes as an offense against decency. When ministers have to call attention to women's dress it is time to stop and think."

A MOUNTAIN LAKE.

Oh, limpid listener, in your placid soul
Are mine all the songs that brooks have sung
When years and years, the shaggy hills among,
They babble of their trials, with foamy tears,
Until, all wearied, having reached their goal,
You softly soothed their sorrows and their fears.

Like sentinels the solid mountains stand
About you, crest'd in garb of gorgeous green;
At early dawn their mirrored shapes are seen
In shimmering outlines, painted by the sun.
Upon your face, athwart the gleaming sand,
Nor fade from view until the day is done.

A fitting figure of eternal rest
You typify the changefulness of man
When, having courted mortality's brief span
Down the hills of Time, his life shall end,
And all his doings, be they baneful or bliss,
Forevermore, with other deeds, shall blend.

BUSINESS OF THE SOAKER.

An Expert in Pawnbroking Who Has His Regular Customers.

In the neighborhood where pawnshops abound the soaker flourishes. The soaker acts as middleman between the pawnshop and his customers. He explains his mission and accounts for his usefulness thus:

"The people down here employ me," said he, "not because they are ashamed to be seen going into a pawnshop themselves, but because I can get more for the goods than they can. There's an art in pawning a coat or a ring, just the same as in everything else."

"I've known people to go into a pawnshop with some old article to pawn and to look the proprietor over with a supercilious air, as if they considered themselves so far above him socially that he couldn't touch them with a 40 foot pole. Naturally, for sheer spite, the broker offers them only about half as much as they would get if they approached him properly. Having had a wide experience of my own, I know how to avoid such difficulties. I am not servile, but I am polite and respectful, and as those two qualities touch the most generous chord in the broker's bosom I get all I want on the proffered chattels."

"As recompense for my services I charge my customers 10 per cent commission. I have regular customers, and then, of course, I do many odd jobs for occasionalists. There are families down here for whom I pawn the same things over and over again, one week after the other. On pay day they take their things out in again, and the next pay day they take them out again. And so it goes, month after month. I canvass the houses just like a book agent or a corn plaster peddler or insurance solicitor."

"Anything to be pawned today?" I ask.

"And if there is I take it around to some shop and raise the necessary dough and take it back and get my commission. Once in awhile I come across somebody who abuses me and calls me a shark, but I'm nothing of the sort. I'm earning a decent living at a legitimate business."—New York Sun.

A Point at Issue.

Several of the lawyers had told their stories, some of which ridiculed the continued use of legal verbiage and the absurd lengths to which members of the profession sometimes go in taking advantage of technicalities.

"A rank outsider," announced the member of the profession who had been a good listener, "a client of mine, supplied the best instance of literal interpretation that ever came to my knowledge. He was executor under a will that, among other provisions, required the payment of an annuity to a venerable aunt of the testator. But proof of her being alive must be made before each payment, and this is the rock on which the executor struck."

"The old lady proved herself in the flesh, drew her money and went to California, where she spent two years without putting in her claim. On her return she went in person and demanded the double allowance due her."

"The conscientious executor got out the will, studied it, scratched his head and finally handed down his opinion: 'Madam, you are alive now. There can be no reasonable question as to that, for I have the conclusive evidence of my own eyes. But I am possessed of no legal proof that you were alive a year ago. I am, as you know, within the restrictions of the will. I will pay the annuity for this year, but must insist upon satisfactory affidavits that you were not dead when the preceding annuity was passed.'"

"It took me the better part of a day to convince him that he should settle in full."—Detroit Free Press.

Family Pride.

"I suppose you take a great deal of pride in your business."

HE CURSED THE TOWN

END OF THE FIRST CAPITAL OF ILLINOIS PROPHESED BY AN INDIAN.

The Destruction of the Town of Kaskaskia Was in Accordance With the Last Words of the Chief Who Died For a Woman's Love.

Since the waters of the Mississippi river washed away the last vestige of Kaskaskia, the first capital of Illinois, an old legend that contained the prophecy of the total destruction of the once flourishing little city has been recalled. Kaskaskia was situated on a peninsula at the junction of the Kaskaskia and the Mississippi rivers, and in 1882 the Mississippi river cut its way through the peninsula, leaving the remnant of the town on an island. The water continued to wash away the rich alluvial deposits on which Kaskaskia was built until, late in 1900, the last foot of the land where the town once stood disappeared. This singular ending of Kaskaskia's once splendid ambitions has recalled to the superstitious the story that the town was cursed in the eighteenth century by an Indian who had been wronged by one of the leading citizens.

Jean Benard came to this country from France in 1688, bringing with him his wife and his 10-year-old daughter Marie. The family settled in Kaskaskia, where Benard established a merchandising business. The Frenchman soon became one of the most prosperous and most influential men of the town. Marie, his daughter, grew to be a beautiful woman, much courted by the most eligible young men of the new country. She was in no hurry to accept any of them, and her fame as a belle spread from Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico.

A young chief of the Kaskaskia tribe of Indians, having become converted to Christianity after several years of study under the tutelage of the Jesuits, built himself a house in Kaskaskia and was taken into partnership in one of the trading houses there. He was prosperous, handsome and well educated and was soon received into the homes of the white settlers. One night at a ball he happened to meet Marie Benard.

The girl was at once fascinated by the tall, fine looking Indian, who fell in love with her at first sight and made no secret of his admiration. But Benard, who soon noticed the attachment and forbade his daughter from communicating with the young Indian. To make sure that there would be no more meetings Benard used his influence to prevent the chief from attending any of the social entertainments given in Kaskaskia.

But love always finds a way, and the young couple managed to see each other despite all the precautions of the girl's father. But Benard became aware of these meetings and again took means to prevent them. He was a man of wealth and influence, and he had the Indian forced out of his partnership in the trading company.

The Indian left Kaskaskia. For almost a year nothing was heard of him, and Benard thought that his daughter had forgotten her lover, for she appeared gay and carefree, and she accepted with apparent pleasure the attentions of a young Frenchman. One night when a large ball at Kaskaskia was at its height Marie Benard disappeared.

Those who searched for Marie discovered that the young chief of the Kaskaskians had been seen that evening in the town, and the conclusion was at once reached that the girl had eloped with him. Benard at once organized a party to go in pursuit of the fugitives. As the party was a heavy snow on the ground, their trail was easily discovered and followed. The Indian and Marie had crept away afoot, and as their pursuers were supplied with fast horses the young lovers were captured after a day's chase about 40 miles from Kaskaskia. Their destination had been the French settlement at St. Louis, where the Indian had provided a home for his wife.

The Indian surrendered without resistance, and the posse started on the journey back to Kaskaskia, taking the two captives. Most of the men who composed Benard's party wanted to kill the Indian instantly, but Benard would not allow it, for he said that they should leave him to deal with his daughter's lover.

When the party reached Kaskaskia, the girl was placed in the convent there. Then Benard took the Indian to the bank of the Mississippi and, binding him tightly to a log, turned him adrift in the river. As the helpless Indian floated away to his death he raised his eyes to heaven and cursed Benard, who, he declared, would die a violent death. The Indian's last words were a prophecy that within 200 years the waters which were then bearing him away would sweep from the earth every vestige of the town, so that only the name would be left.

The unhappy girl died in the convent. Benard was killed in 1712 in a duel. The last trace of Kaskaskia has been obliterated, and the superstitious declare that the Indian's curse has had something to do with the passing of the once flourishing town. On dark and stormy nights the ghost of the Indian is said to appear. The specter, with strong arms bound and face upturned, floats slowly by on the river where the stream sweeps by the site of the vanished city in which Marie Benard once lived and in which she died mourning the red man that she loved.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

He Knew Better.
"Oh, John," she cried, "baby's cut a tooth!"
"Aw, go 'way!" broke in little Willie, who was playing on the floor. "You can't cut a tooth! You may break it, but you can't cut it!"—Chicago Post.

Killing At Lexington.

John Scanlon, freight conductor on the Chesapeake & Ohio road, was shot to death between 9 and 10 o'clock Tuesday morning near Pine Grove, by John Goodin, the brakeman on the train. Scanlon was shot five times. Goodin jumped from the train, and returning to Lexington, gave himself up.

The train pulled into St. Sterling before Scanlon's body was found, the two men being the only ones in the caboose. The authorities took charge of the corpse. Scanlon was about forty-five years old and lived at Lexington.

More Trouble.

Warrants were issued and served Monday, on the charge of selling goods in Mayville without license, on the following representatives of Gifford, Mabie & Co., of Chicago: George Davenport, B. F. Schoenberg, A. Muhr and Wallace M. Shelby.

A later dispatch from Mayville says: "The representatives of Gifford, Mabie & Co., of Chicago, who were arrested yesterday for selling goods in Mayville without a city license, were dismissed, as there was no proof that they had sold goods in the city, but had confined their operations to the country."

Notice.

The Eighth District (C. W. B. M.) is composed of six counties—Bath, Montgomery, Clark, Bourbon, Harrison and Nicholas. Each of these have county managers or secretaries. The district is dissolved over by a manager, Mrs. Emma Gibson Shawhan. The Annual Convention of this district will convene with the Paris Christian Church on Friday, April 6th, morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

A good program is being prepared. All the congregations of Christian Churches in Bourbon County are cordially invited to attend this convention. All persons sending their name to the County Secretary will be provided with hospitable entertainment.

Stock and Crop.

Secretary Wilson, of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, says that the entry list to the Kentucky Futurity of $21,000 for foals of 1901, which closed on Friday of last week will be the largest in the history of the stake. Last year 1,485 were named, and this was the record. This year the indications are that the number will over-reach 1,500.

The bay mare Coinette, 2:15½, has been sent from the Valley Grove Farm, Walker, Mo., to Douglas Thomas at Paris, who will campaign her this year.

Dan Peed has bought the tobacco crop of Jesse Turney, consisting of 35,000 lbs. at 5 cents. Mr. Peed has received at his warehouse in the last two days $5,000 lbs. of tobacco, for which he paid $5,000.

L. Ashurst sold his crop of hemp, about 38,000 pounds, to Jacobs Cordage Co., Cincinnati, at $6 per 113 pounds, delivered on cars here.

Joseph Howerton sold to same company his crop at same price.

CINCINNATI TOBACCO MARKET receipts have been fairly liberal this week, and offerings considerably increased, giving heavy sales on two days, and the largest aggregate in several weeks. The market has held very firm and the tendency has been upward.

Old Tobacco has comprised a very small portion of the offering, but the little appearing has been readily taken under strong competition. The supply is almost exhausted and the manufacturers all seem anxious to secure as many of the remaining hogheads as possible. The quality of a great part of the New Tobacco seen this week has been very poor, but the market has held up well. Though there was some irregularity on Wednesday and Thursday, the results were in the main very satisfactory to sellers, and rejections continue light.

The Interior-Journal says: "The unusual sight of lambs nursing a female lamb can be seen at Capt. B. F. Powell's. The Captain had three pet lambs that the bound, whose pups had been taken from her, became very much attached to and now she plays the role of mother to them to perfection. Capt. Powell also has a couple of lambs that have lately instead of wool on them. The little things look almost as much like pups as they do like lambs."

The Winchester Democrat says: "The lamb crop will be large in Clark county this year, for probably a larger per cent of the crop was never saved than has been this season. The larger portion of them have been sold at 5-13 cents for the early deliveries, and five cents for later. Most of these sales were made some months ago, as for some reason speculators have not been very anxious to purchase recently."

MILLERSBURG.

Mrs. Charles Darnell and Mrs. Frank Vincent went to Lexington, Thursday, to attend the burial of Jas. Snider, who formerly lived here.

OBITUARY.

George Wiedemann, head of the large brewing company of that name at Newport, Ky., died Tuesday, as the result of an operation for appendicitis.

Capt. Jack Stewart, a well-known auctioneer, died at Mt. Sterling Tuesday. He was raised near North Middletown, and during the Civil War was a member of Company D, Eighth (Clarke's) Ky. Cavalry, C. S. A.

How It Is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich;" the second, how to retain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health) by using Green's August Flower. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Appendicitis, Indigestion, etc., such as Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Constipation, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, etc., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of the well-known August Flower will relieve you at once. Go to W. T. Brooks, Paris, Ky., and get a sample bottle free. Regular size, 75 cts. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this careless neglect of colds. German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill; and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup, or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Get a sample bottle free from W. T. Brooks, Paris, Ky. Regular size, 75 cts. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

Art Exhibit Coming.
During the week of April 29, a four-days Art Exhibit will be held at the High School. The Chapel and adjoining rooms will be filled with fine copies of the world's masterpieces. This will be a rare opportunity for the people of Bourbon.

Of Interest To The Ladies.
It will interest every lady in Paris and Bourbon County to know that Mrs. L. B. Conway & Co. have the most complete and thoroughly up-to-date stock of millinery to be found in Kentucky. Besides having the newest and coolest store room in Paris, we have everything that the feminine heart could desire in the millinery line. Besides all the latest Paris and New York patterns, we have a large variety of novelties originated by us which can not be found elsewhere. Fine French fashions, millinery ornaments, velvets and ribbons. You should not miss our opening on April 3 and 4.

For Rent.
A good house and four acres of ground at Shawhan station, two and a half acres to go in tobacco. Address GRAY SMITH, Paris, Ky.

Bright, New Wall Papers.
Gracious in design, beautiful in color. Very large assortments in all of the different grades. My hangers are absolutely the best in the city. I employ three experienced men. My prices are low and I am anxious to make an estimate on your room to show you at what a moderate price I can do your work. It won't cost you anything for me to make you a price. (11) J. T. HINTON.

Gentle Headgear.
GENTLE headgear makes a gentle woman. A hat trimmed in bad taste, too many flowers, or the wrong sort, unsuited to the complexion or style of the wearer, will make her look like a dairymaid. At Miss Corne Watson's will be found everything which goes to make up gentle headgear. A trimmer who has no superior, and everything in the millinery line which will give wide scope for the exercise of her talents. All the very latest New York and Paris pattern hats. A veritable fairyland. Such a display as will be seen at her establishment on the opening days, April 3, 4 and 5, has never been dreamed of in Paris before. No lady in Bourbon county, or neighboring counties, for that matter, can afford to miss seeing this great display. Don't forget the opening dates—April 3 and 4.

Mrs. Nation and Her Hatchet.

Mrs. Carrie Nation, premier "joint" smasher of the world, passed through Paris Wednesday morning over the L. & N. R. R., en route to Lexington, where she delivered a lecture at the Opera House that night.

Her short stay in Paris was an exciting one. Very few people knew that Paris was to be thus honored, and in consequence a very small crowd was at the depot to welcome the distinguished guest. But the smallness in numbers was amply recompensed by the enthusiasm of those who welcomed her.

When the train rolled into the depot, Deputy Sheriff W. W. Mitchell, who was looking for a negro, against whom he had a warrant, was the first one to greet Mrs. Nation. He introduced himself, and her first question was:

"How many saloons have you got?"

"Nary a one," said Wallace.

"Well, I've a good notion to stop off right here and do a little smashing just to get my hand in before I get to Lexington."

Hugo Alexander, who was standing near by, immediately made a break for his place of business, just across from the depot, and in less than two minutes the place was barricaded and a sign was hung out, "Sandwiches Only, For Sale Here."

"Peacock" Coughlin, on the next corner, heard of the threatened invasion, and immediately cleared the deck for action, but happily for Mrs. Nation, she wisely decided to cut the Bowery off her visiting list.

A News reporter interviewed the distinguished old lady, and found her motherly looking old woman, but a bunch of nerves. She said she did not intend to smash any saloons during her short stay in Kentucky, but would do all she could by moral suasion to induce those engaged in the traffic of liquor to give it up. While the reporter was talking to her a boy came up and presented her with a package. "Oh, a bouquet!" exclaimed the smasher. But on opening it she was disappointed to find it contained only a miniature hatchet, and she laughed heartily. As the train pulled out she was given a round of cheer and responded with a wave of her hand.

On the way to Lexington she was made acquainted with Hon. Robert Franklin, Commonwealth's Attorney, and Hon. E. M. Dickson, of this city. Some wag had told her they were both engaged in the liquor traffic, and she went after them hammer and tongs, telling them they ought to be ashamed of themselves. They finally escaped to the smoking car.

At Lexington, Mrs. Nation was met at the depot by a howling mob, who followed her about the city. She visited various saloons and lectured the crowds. At the Opera House at night she lectured to an audience of about two hundred, and returned to Cincinnati yesterday morning. It seemed to be the general opinion of all who met her that she was mentally deranged, but terribly in earnest.

The News is indebted to the Lexington Herald for the kindly use of the cut of Mrs. Nation which accompanies this article.

GIVEN NEW TRIALS.

Court of Appeals Reverses Lower Court in Cases of Caleb Powers and James Howard.

An Associated Press telegram last night says:

The Court of Appeals to-day granted a new trial to Caleb Powers and James Howard, convicted of participation in the Geoble assassination.

Reversal in the Howard case was by the whole court, while in the Powers case Judges Hobson, Paynter and White, Democrats, dissented.

The decision in the Powers case holds that the Taylor pardon is not valid, and that the indictment is good; but reverses the case and orders a new trial on the ground of erroneous instructions to the jury and the admission of incompetent testimony.

The Howard case is reversed because of erroneous instruction and incompetent evidence admitted in the trial and other minor points.

The new trial for Powers probably takes place in Georgetown in May. Howard's case will be called at the April term of court in Frankfort, which begins next week, but it is conceded it will be passed till the fall term. Both Powers and Howard are in jail in Frankfort. Dozens of their friends called at the jail and congratulated them.

For Life and Five Years More.

A laughable incident happened in the Bourbon Circuit Court one day this week. George Henry Allen, colored, was found guilty of stealing a mule, and under the statutes, this being his third conviction, he received a life sentence in the penitentiary.

When the Clerk read the verdict of the jury giving him a life sentence Allen exclaimed: "Gosh! That's a long time for a poor nigger."

Judge Cantrell instructed the jury that they would have to bring in a specific verdict for the stealing of the mule, and then add the life sentence on afterward.

The jury retired, and when they returned, the Clerk read the sentence of five years in the penitentiary. The negro, thinking they had reconsidered, gave a sigh of relief and exclaimed, "Now, that's better." When the Clerk finished reading, and he heard the life sentence attached, he sank back in the chair with a groan, and remarked to his lawyer:

"Gee, boss; they sent me for life and five years more."

Card of Thanks.

Ed. News: Allow me through your columns to thank our many friends and relatives for their kindness to myself and family during the illness and death of my son. It is impossible to thank each one personally, but the kind acts of each one is tenderly cherished in my heart. Respectfully, MRS. SUSAN SCOTT.

John L. Bosley Pardoned.

On last Tuesday morning the President granted a pardon to John L. Bosley, former postmaster at Paris, who was convicted in the Federal Court at Louisville on February 21st on a technical charge of misappropriating the funds of the Postoffice.

Since Mr. Bosley's conviction the Attorney-General has been several times appealed to by Representative Boring and others to recommend his pardon to the President. Judge Evans and District Attorney Hill, in letters to the Attorney General, expressed the belief that Bosley was only technically guilty, and that view of the case was taken by the head of the Department of Justice.

On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Bosley received the following telegram from John W. Yerkes, Commissioner of Internal Revenue:

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
March 26, 1901.
J. L. Bosley, Paris, Ky.

Your pardon has been granted. Warrent has been sent to District Attorney R. D. Hill, at Louisville.

JOHN W. YERKES,
Com. Int. Rev.

On Monday afternoon Mr. Bosley was appointed to a revenue position even before he had received his pardon. He signed for duty for the month of April at the Paris Distilling Company.

There is a moral connected with this affair which it would be well for every one to pause and consider. The News cherishes a personal friendship for John L. Bosley. For that reason, and because it did not think he wilfully purloined a cent from the Government, it signed his application to the President for a pardon. It would have been a miscarriage of justice to have sent Mr. Bosley to the penitentiary for being careless in his business methods.

But there is another side to the story. The appointing of Mr. Bosley to a lucrative government position even before the pardon was granted, will be looked upon as really a prize set upon the competency in office. Mr. Bosley, while personally a splendid gentleman, was a postmaster failure. There were in the six months before his retirement from the office at least fifty complaints to the News office of his careless method of running the office, and it finally resulted in his being found about $300 short in his accounts.

He was indicted by a Federal grand jury, tried and found guilty by a jury in the Federal Court. This was all simple justice. In the eyes of the law Mr. Bosley was the same as any other man. He had violated the law, and he should be punished for it. His friends thought the stigma attached to the conviction was ample punishment for the technical offense committed, and so signed his application for a pardon.

But the effect which his conviction should have upon other postmasters who are careless and negligent in their duties is lost in the appointing of Mr. Bosley to a high-salaried government position even before the president had signed his pardon. It will serve as an inducement to young officials to be less careful in their handling of the funds entrusted to their care, knowing that if a discrepancy is found a pull can be brought to bear with the chances of them getting a much easier position at a much higher salary. There is much food for reflection in this Bosley case.

MAKE your rooms bright and cheerful with new wall paper and moulding. Low prices handsome papers and experienced paper-hangers can be found at my store. (11) J. T. HINTON.

Sermon to Masons.

Hotel For Blue Lick.

"There is a movement on foot," said Dr. Malcolm Dills, of Carlisle, Ky., at the Embury, "to build a fine up-to-date hotel at the Blue Lick Springs, and connect them with our city by an electric line, whence there is railway connection with the outer world. The old hotel that sheltered Henry Clay and many celebrated people for generations was burned some years ago.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

At the next regular meeting of the lodge the installation of officers will take place, after which a social session will be held.

Ruth and Baby Clare.

Since these little artists appeared here during the first part of this season there has been a desire on the part of those who witnessed them, as well as those who did not, to have them return. On last Saturday night they closed their engagement with the Keystone Dramatic Company and arrived in Paris on Monday to spend a brief vacation.

The management of the Grand has arranged for them to appear to-night, and they should be and undoubtedly will be greeted by a crowded house. They will give their entire act, which is divided into three sketches, "Life Is a Toy Shop," their celebrated cake walk and Baby Clare's marvelous piano playing, and concluding with their inimitable black face act, which is the funniest thing on the stage to-day.

They will be assisted by a vocal and instrumental concert, consisting of violin solos by Miss Esther Margolen; vocal and piano solos by Miss Ettie Foote; The Elite Mandolin Quartette; Miss Foote, Messrs. Elmer Foote, Ben Downey and E. D. Reynolds. The entertainment will conclude with the very funny "Lobstercope."

The prices have been placed at the low figures of 10, 20 and 30 cents.

J. W. HOLIDAY CARRIAGE CO.'s vehicle sale will be immediately after the horse show court-day. (td)

DAINTY DESIGNS.

A ladies head-dress is one of the most important items in her apparel, and her appearance depends upon her choice of millinery.

ON APRIL 3 & 4, we propose to show the handsomest and most up-to-date line of New York and Paris patterns hats ever brought to PARIS, KY.

Don't waste time and trouble in experimenting. Come and see us, where satisfaction is always certain.

Miss Marie Rogers, of Cincinnati, our trimmer, has no superior. We say this with all confidence, and are assured that the ladies of Paris and Bourbon county will bear us out when they inspect our stock.

You Do, or You Don't Need Glasses.

The eye being a rather delicate organ, great care should be exercised in the selection of proper glasses. Many believe that glasses should be restored to only when the sight becomes so defective as not to be able to do without. This is a great mistake which must be combated. Whenever there is unmistakable evidence of the need of their aid, they should be used. A neglect of this rule sometimes produces mischief which results in serious trouble if the course be persisted in. Our Dr. C. H. BOWEN having just returned from taking a special course in Optics from one of the best specialists in New York, is prepared to do the best of work, having the latest improved methods of fitting. Examinations free. Next visit Thursday, April 11, 1901
